HELPING HARVESTS GARDENS

Are you and your family looking for a wonderful way to help others? If so, we definitely can use your assistance in our Helping Harvests Gardens. We are happy to provide gardening instruction if desired and children are welcome.

Gardening is a great way for families to work together for the common good in the community, meet new friends, and benefit from healthy exercise, all while learning how to grow vegetables for families in need.

We also welcome volunteers from civic clubs, scout troops, and school and church groups.

We have two gardens in Henry County: one is located at the Cubihatcha Outdoor Center in Locust Grove, GA and the other is in McDonough, GA between Lake Dow and McGarity Roads at the Wesley Way United Methodist Church.

At our Helping Harvest Gardens, we plant both spring and winter gardens and our volunteers help out by adopting a row or rows of vegetables from planting to harvest. Of course, we provide the seeds, water, fertilizer, garden tools and gardening instruction if desired. Since we began in 2004, we have grown and donated more than 10,000 lbs of fresh produce.
